the determination of crystal structures vol iii of crystal structures crystal tarot Protein structure is the three-dimensional arrangement of atoms in an amino acid-chain molecule. Proteins are polymers " specifically polypeptides " formed from sequences of amino acids, the monomers of the polymer. A single amino acid monomer may also be called a residue indicating a repeating unit of a polymer. Proteins form by amino acids undergoing condensation reactions, in which the ...

the determination of crystal structures vol iii of crystal structures crystal tarot The periodic nature of crystals To explain the regular shape of a crystal Huygens (17th century) and Hauÿ (18th century) described crystals as a regular stackings of "elementary building blocks" or "molecules integrantes". This hypothesis explains the "preservation of angles":

the determination of crystal structures vol iii of crystal structures crystal tarot The concentration of hydrogen peroxide (H₂O₂) in distilled water, drinking water and in different types of surface and rain waters can be easily determined by a photometric method in which N,N-diethyl-p-phenylenediamine (DPD) is oxidized by a peroxidase catalyzed reaction. DPD is available as a commercial reagent. In all waters its oxidation occurs with a stoichiometric factor of 2.0 and ...

the determination of crystal structures vol iii of crystal structures crystal tarot A quartz crystal microbalance (QCM) (also known as quartz microbalance (QMB), sometimes also as quartz crystal nanobalance (QCN)) measures a mass variation per unit area by measuring the change in frequency of a quartz crystal resonator. The resonance is disturbed by the addition or removal of a small mass due to oxide growth/decay or film deposition at the surface of the acoustic resonator.
